It is well worth the time, effort and money to play the golf course at Silloth. Once you get there, you won't want to leave!!

Cumbria is one of the most picturesque areas in England, offering quality golf courses for the enjoyment of the discerning golfer and visiting society groups within magnificent settings.

The region's number-one ranked golf course and a regular feature in the Top 100, Silloth on Solway Golf Club is home to what is highly-regarded as one of England's finest links courses.

Founded in 1892 with the help of Railway Company money, the Silloth course was originally designed by Davy Grant and has since evolved, with contributions from classic golf course architects, Dr Alister Mackenzie and Willie Park Jnr.

Located in one of the most remote and isolated areas of England in the Cumbrian countryside and at the mouth of the Solway firth, Silloth's fairways meander through the mature dune flora reminiscent of true links-style golf courses with tough, true greens providing a true test of links golf.

With spectacular views across the firth, overlooking the Scottish Borders and Lake District, the blooming heather and patches of gorse that is in abundance make Silloth's rolling fairways a safe haven. Add in the wind factor and you'll rarely play to handicap. Even in the calm, Silloth is a tricky links course offering one of the most unique challenges in English golf.

Silloth on Solway Golf Club represents excellent value for money. In 2016, National Club Golfer magazine voted it the 'No 1 Course in Britain and Ireland under £100'.

The clubhouse at Silloth was designed by Carlisle architect and club member, Walter Gibbins in 1903 was extended in 1908. Today, it retains a period atmosphere in-keeping with the true character of the Club and golf course. Overlooking the 1st fairway and the 18th green, the airy lounge has been extensively modernised with roof-space opened up to offer natural lighting.

Both visitors and members alike can also feel completely relaxed in comfortable surroundings whilst enjoying a meal in the elegantly-appointed, dining room.

With societies welcome throughout the week, Silloth on Solway Golf Club offer the perfect package of great golf and great food. The Club offer a tremendous full-day package comprising 36 holes of golf on the wonderful links golf course and beautiful food served by the Club's team of caterers for just £78.

With catering service offering mouth-watering dishes tailored to the requirements of societies and corporate guests; visitors and members alike are delighted with the quality of the cuisine blended with the magnificence of the golf course.

Silloth's Professional team are on hand to assist with the smooth-running of the day, leaving you with peace of mind that things are taken care of and enabling you to enjoy the fantastic Silloth on Solway golf course.
